Director Biography

A man with a beard and short dark hair is looking out of a window. He is wearing a dark blue jacket. The lighting is dim, with light coming from the window behind him, creating a silhouette effect. The background outside the window is dark and blurry.

Director Statement

In Greek Apricots, I dwell on the idea of home beyond borders, crafting an intimate story of two individuals drawn together by their shared identity roots. Set against the backdrop of a gas station—a constant meeting point of various languages and cultures—the film reflects on human connection in a space defined by transience.
