

A collage featuring a central image of a woman's face, surrounded by various abstract shapes and patterns in shades of purple, blue, red, and orange. The background is a solid light blue. The collage includes several irregular, organic shapes in purple, blue, red, and orange, some of which contain patterns like polka dots, triangles, and concentric circles. The woman's face is the central focus, with her eyes looking slightly to the right. The overall composition is layered and artistic.

This night will most likely be Ivo's last and he knows it. Behind the doors of the hospital room, his family and friends are waiting. Ivo's grandson comes to the hospital with his new young pregnant girlfriend. When he introduces her to the old man, Ivo asks if he could see her breasts. In the hallway, his wish becomes a public affair. Everyone realises this might be his last wish, but at the same time they try to stay more or less considerate towards the young woman. How will the family solve such a delicate situation? And is this truly Ivo's last wish?

In 2011, OLMO OMERZU (1984) graduated from the FAMU with his first feature A Night too Young. After the successful premiere in the Forum section of the 2012 Berlinale, Omerzu won the Czech Film Critics' Award for the Discovery of the Year. THE FINAL DAY OF RUDOLF NIETSCHE

Poslednji dan Rudolfa Nietzscheja, 2018, DCP, 1 : 1.33, c, 5.1, 27 min

A day in the life of Rudolf Nietzsche, who has never been able to secure even a seat on a train, let alone his place in life – a man lacking that Z in his surname: a letter so small, yet so important.

BLAŽ KUTIN (1970) has worked as director, (script)writer, film critic, journalist, translator, and abstract photographer. With his screenplay Lara he won the New Talent in the European Union Award, presented at the Cannes IFF, as well as the Sarajevo FF CineLink Award. His debut feature We've Never Been to Venice premiered in the line-up of the Sarajevo FF 2008 and competed at numerous IFFs, including Torino, Goteborg, Premiers Plans, Cape Winelands (special jury mention) and Es-toril. His short film Warm for This Time of Year premiered in the competition section of the Sarajevo FF 2011 and was selected for a retrospective of best contemporary shorts from ex-Yugoslavia at the Festival de Cinéma Européen des Arcs 2013.

Fountain, 2017, DCP, 1 : 1.85, c, Dolby SR, 15 min

It has been exactly 100 years since Marcel Duchamp exhibited his famous work Fountain, which was basically a mere urinal. Its replicas have been implicated in a number of incidents when people visiting exhibitions in museums around the globe were trying to give the work its original purpose by force. At the 100th anniversary the question poses itself: if somebody returned the exhibit to the restroom, would it still be a work of art?

A director and (script)writer GORAN VOJNOVIĆ (1980) graduated in TV and Film Directing from the AGRFT. As a writer he has won the highest Slovenian literature award Kresnik three times: for his novels Southern Scum Go Home!, Yugoslavia, My Fatherland, and The Fig. The novel Southern Scum Go Home! (Čefurji raus!) has received the prestigious Prešeren's Fund Award and has been staged as a hugely successful theatre performance. In 2013 it was also made into a feature film, directed by Vojnović. This was Vojnović's second feature film, after he wrote and directed Piran Pirano as well as directed a number of short films.

DOCUMENTARY

BORN TO DIE

Rojen za umret, 2018, HD, c, stereo, 15 min

An experimental documentary about the fate of a man from birth to death – except that we never see the man, only pieces of information about his existence. Our short life is increasingly dependent on advances in medicine and pharmacy, techniques of investigation and intervention in the hidden corners of human life. The film shows the evolution of the “virtual” reality of our lives, which we can only witness on the monitors and endoscopic cameras of various medical investigations and interventions. These begin with fertilisation of the ovum, ultrasound of the foetus, incubators, DNA blood tests and other laboratory examinations, ECG, EEG, MRI, CT... Robotic surgery and “spare parts”: cardiac pacemakers, valves, stents, artificial hearts, knees, hips, bone screws, eye lenses, dental implants, ear implants in young people... An intensive care unit with extracorporeal blood circulation, mechanical ventilation etc., replacing the essential life functions... All the way to the final image on the monitor, the cessation of heart-beat indicated by a horizontal line, which ultimately defines the boundary between life and death. At the end of the movie, the camera – the soul – flies over the wide horizon of the infinite Ocean – our ancestral mother and cradle of life.

After he had finished the nautical school, the director and producer MATJAJ ŽBONTAR (1950) sailed around the world for two years, until he finally dedicated himself to the film arts. In the 1980s he shot documentary films in South America, especially Bolivia, as well as recorded and documented the archaeological dig of the Guarani people on the brink of the Amazon rainforest. After his return to Slovenia, Žbontar founded his own production house and focused primarily on documentaries about the work of important Slovenians at home and abroad.

PRINCE KI-KI-DO [SERIES]

Princ Ki-Ki-Do [serija], 2017/18, animated, no dialogues, 2D DCP, 16 : 9, c

A little chick called Prince Ki-Ki-Do lives on top of a stone tower in a dark forest. He's as small as Calimero but as strong as Hercules, fighting fearlessly for the rights of the forest creatures alongside his two companions, tiger mosquitoes Tine and Bine.

Prince Ki-Ki-Do is an animated series for pre-school children. Its short form, adjusted tempo and directing approach are adapted to young audiences. The straightforward story is introduced through visual language without dialogue.

Born in a small mining town in central Slovenia, as a sickly child DUŠAN KASTELIC spent most of his time reading and drawing comics. Since he was too feeble to carry on the family tradition and get a decent job as a miner, he went to Ljubljana to study. After graduation, he started working as a primary school teacher. He soon realised that being a teacher is a serious and responsible job and became an animator. His debut Perk (2002) won the 2nd prize in the Professional Music Video category (Festival Animago 2002); Chicory 'n' Coffee (2008) won the national Vesna Award for Best Animated Film (FSF 2008) as well as many international awards: for best film in Custom Competitions (Levante FF 2009); for best short animation (FOYLE 2009); and the Kurosawa Award for Creative Excellence (FPS 2009).

MARTIN KRPAN

Martin Krpan, 2017, DCP, 16 : 9, c, DCP 5.1, 24 min 10 s

Back in the days of the Habsburg Monarchy, a simple but clever rustic hulk, Martin Krpan, smuggles "English salt" inland from the sea. One day, he bumps into the Emperor on a snowy path and demonstrates his fantastic strength to His Majesty. Soon after, Vienna is attacked by a terrifying giant called Brdavs, who slays all the imperial heroes. The Emperor calls upon Martin as a last resort to save his Empire. Martin defeats the fiend in a duel and, as a reward, receives a license to legally transport his "English salt".

NEJC SAJE (1976) is photographer by profession and works in the fields of photography, cinema, animation, video, and theatre. Martin Krpan is his second animated film after his award-winning debut Courtyard.

Everything is created!

God did not make the world, but created it. If he were to create it again, he would certainly not do it on his own. He would hire a team.

Creative people are increasingly becoming connected, and creativity is increasingly connecting people. We have every right to protect creative individuals, as well as to support and encourage creative communities and their culture-specific features. We are pleased that the European Union is aware of this and has clearly formulated its commitment to ensure it, and entrusted this mission partly to collective management organizations.
